

Jane Dunnewold

Inspired by Archetypes: Discovering Imagery for Your Work in a New Way

Supply List

Upon registration, I will be in touch with you regarding pre-workshop reading assignments. These will not be lengthy or difficult but will lay the groundwork for the work we do together!

Notebook

pens, pencils, colored pencils, markers - an assortment of mark making tools large pad of drawing and/or watercolor paper (at least 18" x 24")

glue stick

ruler

scissors

Exacto knife and cutting mat

old washcloth

laptop computer (this is optional but if you enjoy designing on the computer or would like some experience doing so, this could be an important addition to your toolbox)

You may use a tablet instead but you need to know how to use it to access apps, create images and then download or transfer to a printer, which we will provide.

digital camera or phone pad of black and/or gray scale paper

In addition to the above:

. I welcome ANY and ALL approaches and materials to this week. It will only be as successful as the materials you are called to use, so listen quietly to your own impulse. If you would like to

- Stitch. Bring the materials you would use at home to stitch, whether by machine or by hand.
- Quilt. You may not be ready to quilt by the end of the week, but if assembling small parts is your heart's delight, bring what you need to pursue it.
- Photograph. Bring your camera, phone or other method of recording the world around you. And any program or app that assists.
- Draw. Bring the tools you need to make it happen.

- Paint. Bring what you need.

If I haven't mentioned a field of expression here, it's only because I didn't think of it. This workshop is not about technique so you should feel very free to bring whatever your visual voice longs to do. This workshop is about exploring that distinctive voice through personally selected tools and materials. Questions? Please write to me! I will also send an update after the 1st of the year, in order to share additional ideas for prepping for our time together.